

THE INTERIOR JOURNAL.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 10, 1872.

ELECTING CONGRESSMEN.

An act providing for voting by ballot in the election of Representatives in Congress.

THE BALLOT BOX.

The sheriff shall, at the expense of the county, provide for each precinct, a strong, well made box, large enough to contain all the ballots to be cast in the respective precinct; which box shall have a lid, with hinges, and a lock and key. A hole, large enough only to receive the ballot, shall be made in each box.

THE BALLOT.

The sheriff shall cause said box to be delivered to the officers of election two days before the day fixed by law for such election; and the officers of election before the voting begins, shall examine and see that no ballots are in said box.

RECORDING NAMES.

The clerk of election shall record the name of each voter on the poll book, when the ballot is presented.

SHERIFF OF ELECTION.

When a voter offers his ballot to the judges of election, it shall be the duty of the sheriff to announce, in an audible voice, as heretofore, the name of the person who offers his ballot.

CUSTODY OF BOX.

The box shall be in the custody of the officers of the election, securely locked during the election, and they shall keep it securely until the time required by law to deliver the poll books to the county court, and shall seal up the box before delivering it to the clerk. The poll books and box are to be delivered to me at the same time.

BALLOTS.

Be printed or written on white paper on the name of the voter, and folded so as to fit the name on it, whether printed or written.

JUDGES.

Will be seated in ascertaining the place of vote, as is now required, and they shall only examine for enough to see and count one ballot, and if more than one ballot is offered, our price will be as low as can be afforded.

RIGHTS OF VOTERS.

Officers of the election shall be held responsible, until each voter has voted, for failing to count, and shall seal up the box before delivering it to the clerk, who shall, in the name of the voter, deposit the box.

OFFICERS DUTY.

Officers of the election shall be held responsible, until each voter has voted, for failing to count, and shall seal up the box before delivering it to the clerk, who shall, in the name of the voter, deposit the box.

NOT COUNTED.

Officers of the election shall be held responsible, until each voter has voted, for failing to count, and shall seal up the box before delivering it to the clerk, who shall, in the name of the voter, deposit the box.

EXAMINING BOARD.

Examining board of each county, to examine and count, and to again return to the box.

REPEATING.

If the officers of the election require that one ballot has been cast by the same person, they shall be held responsible.

CONSIDER THE COUNTING.

Officers of the election shall be held responsible, until each voter has voted, for failing to count, and shall seal up the box before delivering it to the clerk, who shall, in the name of the voter, deposit the box.

CHINCHINNATI GRATE.

The Paris True Kentucky says:

"When the old veterans of Kentucky who had fought for Ohio, and whose country had so largely contributed to the great wealth and prosperity of Cincinnati, passed through that city lately, going to the battle-fields of the River Basin, they were permitted to do so without any notice from the authorities or citizens, save the attention they received from the ex-Kentuckians of the Merchants' Hotel. Those popular landlords, Messrs. Bruce & McIntyre, refused to receive pay from the old veterans, as they wended their way to Michigan, and on their return feeling mortified that the authorities still took no notice of the presence of the old patriots, they gave them a banquet at the Merchants' Hotel. We think the officers who never saw before, and in all probability such as the fraternity will never witness again, the Masonic emblem of immortality to the soul."

Immediately beneath her stood winged Time, with his scythe, by his side, which cuts the brittle thread of life, and the hour glass at his feet, which is ever revolving as that our lives are withering away. The withered and attenuated fingers of the destroyer were placed amid the long and gracefully flowing ringlets of the inconsolable mourner. Thus were the striking emblems of mortality beautifully blended in one pictorial representation. It was a spectacle such as Masons never saw before, and in all probability such as the fraternity will never witness again. The brother's name was never known.
